Intermediate Architectural Design Studio
484/584 Winter 2009

MG2 SUPER STUDIO
The studio will examine the complex interplay between urban scale and human scale, built form and interstitial spaces, sustainable considerations and site constraints. This is the challenge for architects who choose to work in urban settings in the years to come – higher density without the prescriptive measures that facilitate a livable architecture. Students will be given an urban site covering several city blocks and will be asked to evaluate the design potential for at least two of those blocks. Design professionals from MulvannyG2 Architecture, led by Senior Designer Suenn Ho, will conduct the studio in a team teaching format.
